About Me

Hello, I'm Dennis Carroll

As an American living in Malaysia for over a decade, I am a highly experienced executive trainer, English teacher, and digital marketer. I have taught English, ICT, computer science, business studies, and robotics at international schools and designed courses for international businesses including Samsung. Additionally, I have trained professionals in communication skills, public speaking, presentations, negotiations, and digital marketing and various software as an HRDC certified trainer.

With over 28 years of experience development, web design, graphic design, and video production, I bring a unique perspective to my training. I am also a certified digital marketer with expertise in SEO, customer value optimization, social media marketing, and SEM. As the owner of my own digital marketing company, I help businesses achieve their marketing goals. My courses are designed to be interactive, providing ample opportunities for participants to practice their skills in real-world scenarios.

If you're looking for a highly skilled and experienced trainer who can help you achieve your professional goals, look no further than me. Contact me today.
